

RUTGERS

Edward J. Bloustein School of Planning and Public Policy

Women's Leadership in Health Care and Public Health

Thursday, March 9 | 5:00 p.m.

at the Governor James J. Florio Special Events Forum
Edward J. Bloustein School of Planning and Public Policy | 33 Livingston Avenue, New Brunswick, NJ
on the campus of Rutgers University

The book Junctures in Women's Leadership: Health Care and Public Health highlights the leadership of twelve transformational women leaders in the field of health care and public health who have improved population health on the local, national or global level. While doing so, many of these women challenged the social and cultural norms or constraints in our society from the perspectives of gender, race and motherhood. Their leadership stories demonstrate a broad definition of population health and their work influenced social change in diverse settings and disciplines including: environmental justice, research, advocacy, policy, clinical care, mentorship, healthcare delivery systems and governance. This event will engage several of the book's contributing authors in a discussion about the lessons learned by these women leaders and how they might inform our future work to improve health.

Free and open to the public. Registration requested by visiting Register at <https://go.rutgers.edu/2023healthcareleadership>

PANELISTS

Alexander M. Bartke,
BS (Public Health) '18,
Administrative Coordinator,
Safeguard Biosystems

Ann Marie Hill,
Teaching Professor/Internship
Coordinator Emeritus, Bloustein
School; former Executive Director,
New Jersey Commission
on Cancer Research

Mary O'Dowd,
Executive Director of Health Systems and Population
Health Integration, RBHS;
former Commissioner,
New Jersey Department of Health

Elizabeth A. Ryan,
Executive in Residence, Bloustein School, and former CEO, New Jersey
Hospital Association

For more information about our 30th anniversary and events, visit bloustein.rutgers.edu/30th-anniversary